I can confidently initiate questions and make contributions or offers of opinion in a range of contexts.

I can encourage others to share their beliefs with me.

I can sustain friendships over a period of time and join other friendship groups without hurting (upsetting) others.